Park Place International Unveils Updated Website to Meet MEDITECH Customer Demand

DALLAS – June 2, 2010 - Park Place International, a provider of comprehensive professional services for MEDITECH clients, is pleased to unveil its new company website in conjunction with the MUSE 2010 conference. Park Place International has been delivering accredited technology lifecycle services to the MEDITECH community for 20 years. The new site reflects the company's deep understanding of the of Medical Information Technology solutions and provides MEDITECH users with resources and service to meet fluctuating demands and budgets for years to come.

Park Place International is exhibiting at MUSE, the MEDITECH user group, booth #309 in Dallas, June 1-4, 2010.

Ed Kenty, Park Place President and CEO says, "MEDITECH systems are relied upon by a significant number of organizations to manage clinical and financial data. We've built our business creating long term relationships with clients and the new website is an online extension of our service model and ethics."

As healthcare information technology becomes more complex and the requirement to demonstrate its meaningful use increases, partnering with a technology lifecycle services expert is increasingly important.

"Park Place International's model of a single point of contact to provide quality, knowledgeable service that is vendor independent is a good fit with healthcare organizations' needs. Most healthcare infrastructure is comprised on a multitude of disparate systems and having a partner that can work between systems to produce results means easier management and increased uptime," continues Mr. Kenty.

Park Place International partners with sister company Park Place Technologies, North America's premier provider of data center hardware maintenance services to offer their flexible hardware maintenance programs which deliver secure, reliable maintenance for your mission critical servers, storage and network devices. Park Place International's double-digit growth over the past 10 years is attributed to their ability to build long term relationships with clients and their ability to be proactive in a reactive technology market.
